New trader joins Chemoil-Adani

September 17, 2010

Indian supplier Chemoil-Adani Pvt Ltd announced that Deepak Dharwal has joined the company as a bunker trader.

"Dharwal has experience in the fields of oil trading and shipping logistics," Chandan Samaiyar, Chemoil-Adani's vice president of sales and marketing, told Bunkerworld.

"He holds a masters degree in oil trading."

Dharwal will replace J.P. Shahi who has left the company.

Chemoil-Adani, a 50:50 joint venture between global marine fuel supplier Chemoil and India's Adani Group, is a major physical bunker supplier in India's Gujarati ports.
